THE DUNES OF 1931

RHYTHM, the first step to music, was originated by prehistoric man, some time during the stone age. This, being a natural instinct, was created by beating certain cadences on wood and skin objects.

The production of sound, though originally by the human voice, was first artificially created by horns, derived from animals and later made of metal.

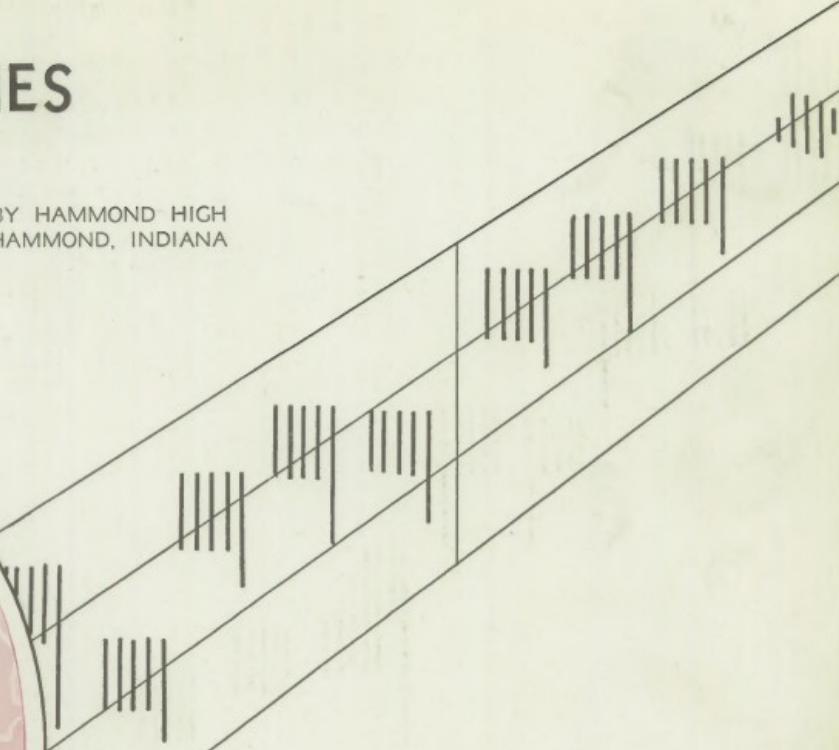

About this time hollow reeds, producing tones, were joined in groups giving different pitches. These, told of in mythology, "The Pipes of Pan," caused the outgrowth of the organ.

THE DUNES

MUSICAL notation was originally a prefixed letter on a four-line staff, indicating pitch. Graphic signs were placed thereon to illustrate trend of melody. These signs gradually changed to square flags and thence to our present form notes.

At present men are working on systems of quarter and third tone music which may be that of the future.

Foreword

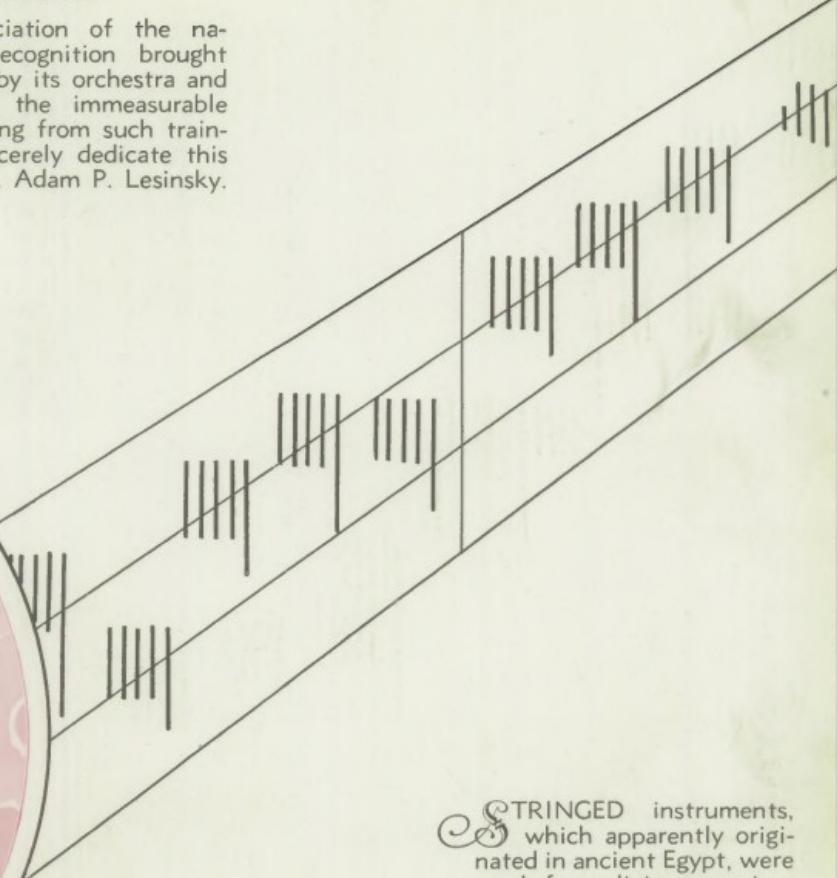

*N*IN music, of all the arts, we find the greatest mode of expression of man. From the wild, ecstatic beat of jungle tom-toms, to the brilliant flare of modern jazz, the very heartbeat of mankind pulses throughout the centuries. Joy, pathos, fierce exuberance—all of the passions and emotions find expression and life in music. It is the transition of music from the primitive to the modern which forms the background of The Dunes.

ALTHOUGH nearly obliterated, the only type of stringed instrument used during the dark ages was the lute, played by travelling minstrels. About the fifteenth century our present forms were conceived, but were not definitely established until the eighteenth century.

Dedication

*J*N appreciation of the national recognition brought this school by its orchestra and bands, and the immeasurable good resulting from such training, we sincerely dedicate this book to Mr. Adam P. Lesinsky.

*S*TRINGED instruments, which apparently originated in ancient Egypt, were used for religious services and entertainment. A development, the lyre, was a romantic source of inspiration in Greece, and was also used in Rome. Other odd forms were also prevalent during these periods.

THE birth of the modern symphony orchestra occurred with the emersion of the world from the dark ages. At first small ensembles were used in conjunction with church plays, dramatized from the Bible. This gradually grew with the addition and development of new instruments, until at present our orchestras number over 100 pieces.

THE four essentials previously reviewed form the nucleus of our present symphonies—rhythm created in the percussion section, brass and woodwinds (reeds), and the strings.

Each type was developed into four different voices, forming the brass, woodwind, and string quartets.

It remains to the future to decide the fate of our present mode of music. Let us hope it approaches the absolute.

*G*EORGE FREDERIC HANDEL was an early composer of great ability. His works, mostly ecclesiastical in style, were performed by choruses such as the one illustrated below.

The theme carried throughout this Dunes is the Hallelujah Chorus from his "Messiah," perhaps the most inspiring chorus of all time.

SCHOOL

Board of Education

Mr. George J. Wolf
Mr. Walter N. Bercaw
Mr. Howard J. Gescheidler

The Board of Education is composed of three of Hammond's well-known citizens: Mr. George J. Wolf, president; Mr. Howard J. Gescheidler, secretary; and Walter N. Bercaw, treasurer.

Mr. Wolf was born and reared in Hammond, and is a good example of the successful business man. In his youth he was quite an athlete, being especially proficient in baseball. He is interested in all school doings, and has a great deal to do with their success.

Mr. Bercaw was born and educated in Indiana. He received his earliest training at Anderson, and his later education at Indiana University. Upon graduation he entered into the employment of the Standard Oil Company as a personal relations man. He, too, is especially interested in sports. He enjoys golf and tobogganing, as well as giving close attention to our high school football.

Mr. Gescheidler, secretary of the Board of Education, was born in Hammond, educated in the public school, and at the end of his school career went to work at the city hall. Later he became affiliated with the Hammond Trust and Savings Bank, where he now holds the position of vice-president and head of the Insurance Department. Every man has a hobby and Mr. Gescheidler's happens to be fishing; along with that he backs the school in all of its activities. He is the new member.

These three men, who compose the board, may well be complimented upon the past successful year.

MR. WOLF

MR. GESCHEIDLER

MR. BERCAW

Mr. Caldwell

Mr. L. L. Caldwell is the superintendent of all Hammond schools, including grade schools as well as high school. He is popular with all ages and is always welcomed wherever he goes. He has had an interesting life, and has helped many a boy and girl to higher ideals in life.

Superintendent Caldwell graduated from Simpson College, Iowa, and later attended Iowa Teachers College, where he studied the methods of teaching. After finishing there, he taught and later became superintendent. He has spent some of his leisure time in the State University of Iowa and the University of Chicago. He has aided Hammond schools greatly as a result of his intelligent research.

The hobbies which are preferred by this man are landscape gardening, fishing, and hunting in the North woods.

He is constantly working for and with us toward the betterment of our school. He is very proud of our successes, and strives his utmost to make each department the best along its particular line of work.

Mr. A. L. Spohn

Hammond High is indeed lucky to have secured a man such as is Mr. A. L. Spohn for its principal. He is a man of the highest integrity; he is to be trusted far, and is very capable of handling the many and varied problems which confront a leader of a large school. He is always ready to give assistance or advice, and sees that everyone gets his just deserts. If one plays fair, he is sure to be treated equally well.

Mr. Spohn has worked hard and faithfully to build up the school to its present status. A large share of the success which has come to us in various lines is due to his careful management. Our bands, debaters, musical organizations, clubs, and papers, all owe a lot to his support of school endeavors.

Our leader is a graduate of Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and of the University of Chicago. Previous to his present position, he taught English in the Hammond High School, and in East High School, Minneapolis.

Like most people who have a large responsibility resting on their shoulders, Mr. Spohn has a hobby. One of his chief delights is to work in the yard or garden, and may be found on his own plot of ground at most any time during the year.

H. H. S. FACULTY

The Student Government

Every student who enters the high school becomes a member of our student government and this gives each one the power to vote.

Our government is patterned after our own United States. We have a President, John Christensen; Vice-President, Salvo Marks; and Recorder, Kathleen Vincett. They are all elected by popular vote. The President in turn appoints his cabinet which is composed of a Secretary of Discipline, William McCarthy; Secretary of Student Activities, Elmer Rose; and a Secretary of Public Safety, Ruth Hammerstrom. This cabinet is directed and led by two faculty advisors, namely, Mr. R. G. Rupp and Miss Esther Johnson.

It is the duty of this group to carry out all plans and suggestions for a better high school.

The next important branch of our student government is the law making bodies, Senate and House of Representatives. All bills must originate in the House and be passed by a majority vote in both to become laws. Popular election by classes places a student in the Senate and election by advisory places him in the House.

The laws are enforced and punishment "doled out" by our Court. They are to be condemned for their judgment in pronouncing sentence; for their sentences are usually upheld by Mr. Spohn, our principal. However, if the culprit does not agree he may appeal to the Senate Court. This rarely happens.

LUDWIG VON BEETHOVEN —the man whose genius freed music and allowed it to soar to a loftier realm. His life's sufferings and anguish are poured forth in his infinite late compositions.

Later men sought beyond his path to attempt another step approaching absolute music. His works, exceeding 350, are nearly all forms of instrumental and vocal compositions.

BEETHOVEN did much for the development of instrumental music. His orchestrations show wonderful foresight and remarkable genius, although containing many imperfections, which were later used by Brahms to advantage. The illustration emulates the performance of one of his great piano concertos.

MISS ESTA OVERMEYER

Advisor.

All histories go back to the beginning, so we go back to the beginning of our high school career to start ours. Four years ago, we, the Senior Class of '31, tremblingly entered the portals of Hammond High School as Freshmen. Unsophisticated and green as we were, we suffered the usual horrors of wrong rooms, elevators, cruel teachers, upper classmen, and what not. During this year we were not organized as a class, but some of our brilliant class members represented us in the Ace of Clubs.

At the opening of our Sophomore year we felt more venturesome, and, rapidly learning the ways of the upper classmen, we organized our class with Miss Bauman as sponsor. We elected Joe Honoroff, President; William Hoaster, Vice-President, and Kenneth Cramer, Secretary.

As Juniors, Miss Bauman continued as our guide. Our leadership was also entrusted to Tom Fleming as President, Kenneth Coffing as Vice-President, Kathleen Vincett as Secretary, and John Wilhelm as Treasurer. Red and white were selected as our colors. The red rose was our flower, and "Etiam quod esse"—"Be what you seem to be"—was our motto. It was this year that, in the mind of the school as a whole, we really became important to school life. As a climax to this year's activities we successfully changed the climate of a hot evening in June to December with snow and icicles, which caused the warmest blooded to shiver as strains of dance music floated from the igloo. We breathed a sigh of happiness and yet of regret, for our Prom had been a success, but it marked the end of our Junior year.

Our last year was sponsored by Miss Overmeyer, Mr. Myers, and Miss Dye (due to Miss Bauman's resignation from our faculty) and the following officers: Lowell Tucker, President; Kenneth Coffing, Vice-President; Kathleen Vincett, Secretary, and Morris Johnson, Treasurer. Under this leadership we took over the reins of school government, the management of the two publications, and many other school activities.

Representing our abilities as to scholarship, we have as valedictorian, Ruth Hammerstrom, and as salutatorian, Theodore Miller.

Senior Will

Whereas, we, the Senior Class of '31, of Hammond, Indiana, located in the County of Lake, on the beautiful shores of Lake Michigan, have shown ourselves to be of a firm and impartial mind, being capable mentally, morally, and physically of completing four years of diligent study on behalf of ourselves and posterity, thereby proving that we are sane, sound, and most extraordinarily supernatural in mind and body, do hereby declare this our last will and testament.

After an extended survey of our possessions, we arrived at the conclusion that we would be unable to take the majority of them with us on the quest for the golden chest of success. So to our fellow men and inmates in this great institution we give the following:

ITEM I

To the School

1. A drinking fountain that works.
2. A new gym, with all necessities, including a good team.

ITEM II

To the Classes

1. '32—The dignity of the class of '31.
2. '33—The privilege of enlarging their hats to fit their "swelled heads."
3. '34—An elevator.

ITEM III

To the Teachers

1. To Mr. Coleman—Some trustees to help care for the rogues of 9th.
2. To Mr. Hopper—Some fly paper to make him sit still.
3. To Miss Wood—A faithful student.
4. To Miss Newnham—One good stenography class—so they might leave at 3:05.
5. Mr. Kumpf—A dart to pierce his heart.
6. Miss Burhans—A few more students like "Willis Jacobs."
7. Miss E. Davis—"A few more" Remington typewriters.
8. To Miss Snyder—"A stepladder."
9. Miss Getzendanner—The use of the auditorium once in a while.

ITEM IV

1. To Rex Marlowe—Faith Purdy's good grades so he might stay in the senate.
2. To Dot Guy—Anything she hasn't.
3. To Wallie Halfman—Lowell Tucker's excess women.
4. Tubby Nau—Ortts Bemisderfer's six years in school.

5. To Vera Prior—Jane Miller's sarcasm.

6. Joe Dennis—Johnny Gunnell's ability to orate.

7. Adell Wilhelm—A twin brother like her "big college man" to keep her company in '32.

8. Jimmy Gillespie—To become the big shot.

9. Belle Dickstein—Esther's ability to dance.

10. Betty Stoikowitz—Her hero for ever and ever.

11. Alice Betz—Valla Kits' excess pep.

12. Ralph Loss—A little Irish girl friend for those green clothes.

13. Mary Ruth Smith—The hope of having a new red-headed boy friend for her senior year.

14. Delphon Bashore—Orville Reissig's curly hair.

15. Eddie Postlewaite—Norman Ruvell's bass voice.

16. Fuzzy Stoll—Katherine Newlin's hair.

17. Michael Zatorski—Frank Rudinski's ability to play basketball.

18. Albert Domke—The hearts of a few more girls.

At last we've landed. After a trip of three years we have finally reached our goal. We're Juniors.

Three years ago we came in on a bright September morning as Freshmen, looking very green and feeling quite the same. We looked for the elevators, movable stairs, and what not, but we soon learned that there really weren't any. Many a downward look and sad heart was in our midst, but we knew we were to do big things but didn't quite know how to go about it.

As Sophomores we timidly raised our heads and spoke to the Juniors and Seniors, and looked around the school. We soon learned how to go about doing big things. Now as Juniors we shall first get our identification marks, our rings and pins, next and biggest thing to make our class the best that has ever left Hammond High, so that even the next generation will remember the Class of '32.

Brown-eyed Rex Marlowe, our pilot, introduced one aim that the passengers have readily agreed to and that is to make the Prom of '31 the most outstanding Prom. So be prepared to enjoy yourselves, Seniors, as our honored guests on the "Junior Graft Zephlin." Miss Thomas heartily approves of this plan and, with the help of Engineers Billy Law, Faye Bennett and Jimmy Gillespie, and the passengers, we plan to make this a successful trip.

RICHARD WAGNER, the greatest composer of opera, was severely criticized in his time for being modern but he struggled on, only with the assistance of Liszt. Had his pen not written one note of music he would have ranked with the greatest poets of Germany. His music, most colossal and expressive at times, shows his genius, which is hardly yet fully realized.

THE illustration below exemplifies a few characters from "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg." Perhaps the best known song from this opera is "Walther's Prize Song." Although often called his most mature work, it, strangely enough, is his only humorous opera.

BAND CHAMPIONS, 1930

Director—A. P. Lesinsky

1928—Second in Indiana, fifth in United States

1929—Third in Indiana

1930—First in Indiana, third in United States

A glance at the above record indicates the standard of school music in Indiana, and is indicative of the fact that competition within the state is often as stiff as that met in the national contests. In fact, at the present time there are competing in Indiana no less than four bands which have placed from sixth to third in the United States.

The band numbers among its members some of the outstanding solo performers in the country. Reinhardt Elster, tympanist and harpist, has won the National High School marimbaphone solo contest for the past two years. He was also picked as tympanist with the National High School Orchestra, playing under such directors as Joseph Maddy, Frederick Stock, Howard Hansen, and others. William Argus was French horn solo champion of the United States in 1929; Miss Myrtle Childs, cornetist, won third honors at the national solo contest in 1930; Miss Gladys Hudson, oboist, ranks fourth in the United States.

Director Lesinsky, assisted by Mr. Diercks and Mr. Weimer, has placed Hammond High School at the top in American school music, the records of its orchestra and girls' band justifying the contention that Hammond is, all around, the best developed and most advanced high school in musical America.

ORCHESTRA CHAMPIONS

Director—A. P. Lesinsky

- 1927—First in Indiana
- 1928—First in Indiana
- 1929—First in Indiana, Second in United States
- 1930—Undefeated in Indiana, Second in United States

In the year 1927, a beautiful silver trophy was offered for competition in Indiana. It was to become the permanent possession of the first orchestra to win it three times.

Today that trophy rests in the case at Hammond High School, to remain there for the life of the institution, for Director Lesinsky and his musicians won the state championship, not only three times, but three years in succession!

At Iowa City, early in the summer of 1929, Hammond High School's orchestra won the rank of second in the United States. At Lincoln, Nebraska, in 1930, this honor was earned for the second year. Is it any wonder that the heart of every Hammond student, of every Hammond citizen, thrills with pride at this picture above? For Hammond's orchestra is one of the two best in the country.

BAND CHAMPIONS

Director—Mr. Diercks

1928—Second in County

1929—Second in County

1930—First in State

For a high school to have a girls' band is in itself rather unusual. But when that band attains a degree of quality and skill beyond the reach of many boys' organizations the school may well be proud of such a reputation.

Competing at the state contest at Gary in 1930, the Hammond High School Girls' Band, under the direction of Mr. Diercks, placed first in Class A.

A study of the above picture shows a little of the instrumentation and fine appearance of this splendid organization; but to realize the skill of these girls, one must hear them in concert.

During the years of 1929-1930, the band played creditably such difficult compositions as "Hungarian Comedy," "Orpheus des Undervelt," "Stradella," "William Tell," "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," and others of equal rank.

Hammond High School and the citizens of Hammond must "doff hats" to Mr. Diercks and the girls of this fine band.

Our Choral Club is composed of the best voices of the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs. The singers are picked not only for their musical quality, but also for their ability to read accurately at sight and blend harmoniously with the rest of the voices. High scholastic standards and good character are other important requirements.

At Christmas time this choir is kept busy filling engagements with various local clubs and theatres. Its fine appearance at the Paramount Theatre attributed much to its success.

Another outstanding accomplishment of this ambitious society was its part in the Third National Chorus held in Detroit, February 19-24. Six choristers had the honor of being selected for the wonderful chorus under the direction of Dr. Hollis Dann, well-known authority on choral music.

Those who enjoyed the privilege of going to Detroit for a worth-while week were Marie Mullaney, first soprano; Harriet Toren, second soprano; Dorothea Vieweg, second alto; Richard Aageberg, second tenor; Norman Ruvell, second bass; and Richard Kennedy, baritone of 1930.

A branch of the Choral Club is the mixed double quartette composed of eight of the best vocal talent. This octette includes Marie Mullaney and Harriet Toren, sopranos; Dorothea Vieweg and Dorothy Scott, altos; Richard Aageberg and Roy Thorne, tenors; and Norman Ruvell and Eugene Harmon, basses. They, too, sing for clubs about the community.

"Music is the essence of good and leads to all that is good, just and beautiful." —PLATO.

Even today we can say the same thing with real meaning.

The Girls' Glee Club is one of the leading activities in Hammond High School and is one of the many pleasures afforded the musically inclined knowledge seekers.

To become a member, a girl must possess a superior voice and must be in good scholastic standing. During her membership this standard must be maintained.

Two years ago this club adopted the motto "Always Bz," and well has it lived up to that slogan. That same year attractive pins were ordered for each of the members, establishing a precedence followed by the rest of the glee clubs.

An important phase of the Girls' Glee Club is the Girls' Quartette, composed of four select voices. The quartette members are Marie Mullaney, first soprano; Harriet Toren, second soprano; Dorothy Scott, first alto; and Dorothea Vieweg, second alto. Whenever an outside club wishes a representation from the high school glee clubs, Miss Becker usually sends either the Girls' or Boys' Quartette.

Among the difficult numbers in their repertoire are "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Herbert; "Song of India," by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," by Saint-Saens; and "Flower of Dreams," by Clokey.

The work of the accompanist, Helen Margaret Leas, who shares the burdens with Miss Becker, is greatly appreciated.

Organized in 1922, and bettering as the years roll by, Hammond's Boys' Glee Club is today one of the outstanding musical organizations in Lake County, a fact that was established in the recent Music Festival. Good fellowship and co-operation, as well as the music itself, were high lights throughout the past nine successful years.

Under the capable direction of the smiling Miss Becker the club has accomplished much, both in and out of school, and won for itself a coveted name as a sound musical organization.

One of the most interesting songs this club has on its lists is "Jerusalem Morning," a lively negro tune. It is typically religious and, because of the clever way in which it is presented, always calls for an encore. One of the most difficult numbers for the boys' voices is "Morning," by Oley Speaks. Miss Becker thought the boys capable of handling it, however, and gave it to them. After many whole-hearted rehearsals they now have the number worked up to a fine point of perfection.

As a part of the Boys' Glee Club we find the Boys' Quartette growing more popular day by day. Its members include Richard Aageberg, first tenor; Roy Thorne, second tenor; Eugene Harmon, first bass, and Norman Ruvell, second bass. This quartette has sung at many banquets, adding much zest to the programs.

Helen Margaret Leas acts as accompanist for this group as well as for the girls.

Zing! Bang! Plenty of pep, and oodles of talent and emotion. The Dramatic Club is made possible by the untiring and appreciated efforts of Miss Edna Getzendanner and Miss Virginia Davis.

The regular once-every-three-week meetings consist of extremely interesting items. Many times the club members are called on for readings, or to portray some special part of any famous drama. Miss Getzendanner often gives very excellent speeches concerning the most up-to-date dramatists and dramas.

The sole purpose and aim of said club is to promote a deeper interest in drama among the students, and to sponsor all dramatic presentations, mainly the Fall Play, which consists entirely of members of the Dramatic Club.

The initial requirements are mainly dramatic, such as to appear in programs presented in auditorium sessions and have a leading role; have an average of C in all other school work. All students who strive to become members of the club and obtain an "A" in public speaking will automatically be given membership, and if any person has made a successful tryout in the form of a reading, or such, they, too, are enrolled as members of the club.

Each year the Dramatic Club presents a one-act play for an auditorium session. The club also functions during the annual Hammond High School Fair, presenting one or two clever plays.

Auditorium Plays

"OFFICER 666"

The Fall play of 1931, "Officer 666," proved to be one of the most popular and well received of Hammond High School's presentations. Drawing capacity crowds for three nights, the play well justified the oft-heard statement that Hammond High School dramatics are in a class by themselves.

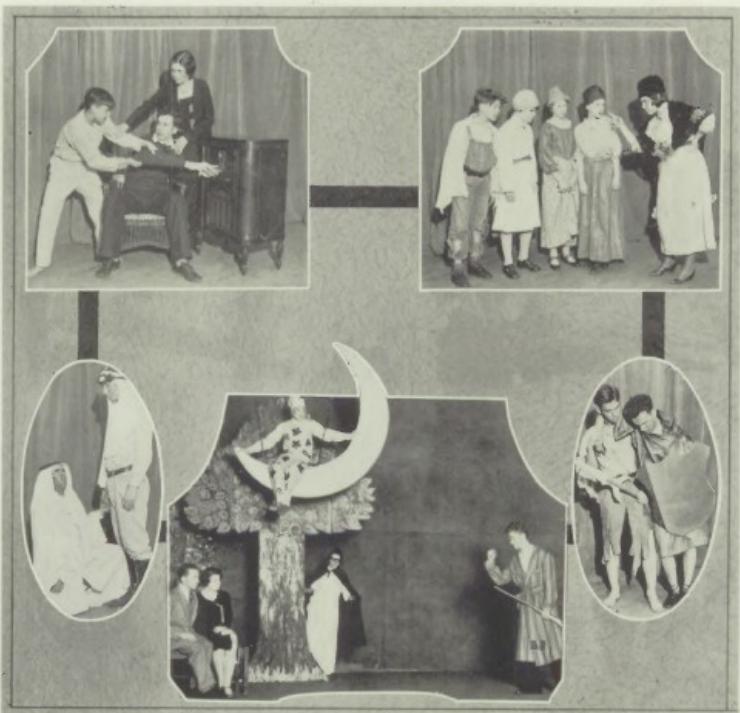

To Miss Edna Getzendanner, head of the Dramatic Department, must go the credit for this enviable reputation. It is her painstaking work and tireless effort which have produced and can be depended upon to produce plays of professional-like character.

One of the most interesting features of the weekly auditorium programs is that practically all of the material is written by Miss Getzendanner herself. This is necessitated by the fact that pageants and the like, suitable for high school use, are not in print. However, it is hard to imagine any more instructive and interesting material than that written and produced by our own dramatic coach.

INDIANA STATE

Hammond High School's debaters, state champions, claim truly an enviable record for the 1931 season. Against the strongest competition ever encountered by Hammond wranglers, the Negative and Affirmative teams piled up a score of twenty victories in twenty starts. Incidentally, in the last six years Hammond has engaged in seventy-five debates and has lost four.

In pre-season tilts, Hammond beat Laporte and Michigan City. Next, by eliminating East Chicago, Whiting and Crown Point in regular dual conference debates, Hammond won the right to meet Jefferson of Lafayette for the championship of the tenth district.

Though they put up a great fight, the Lafayette teams were unable to stop Hammond in its determined march.

On April 10th and 11th, eight teams, survivors of an original eighty-nine and the cream of the state, met at North Manchester to fight for the championship. The winner was determined by elimination—truly the survival of the fittest. In the first round, Hammond put out South Side of Fort Wayne to enter the semi-finals. The following morning, Hammond eliminated Peru while Princeton defeated Lebanon.

Then, on Saturday evening, the Hammond teams won their greatest debate when they defeated Princeton for the state title. Many of the teams over which Hammond triumphed boasted records far more impressive than our own. Lebanon was state champion two years ago. Princeton had been runner-up for the past two years. Last year's champs were beaten in their district by Concord. Peru eliminated Concord in the first round. Hammond then beat Peru 6-0.

DEBATE CHAMPIONS

To Mr. W. A. Kumpf and Mr. R. A. Myers, coaches of the Negative and Affirmative teams, respectively, must go the credit for the ease and strategy which gave Hammond the state championship. The tireless effort and expert instruction and advice of these men made possible the attainment of the title—a feat more remarkable when one remembers that at the beginning of the season only two experienced debaters remained from the preceding year.

For the Affirmative, Salvo Marks was the first speaker. His magnetic personality and excellent delivery did much to win the audience from the beginning. Margaret Amble, second speaker, has the distinction of being the only girl ever to speak on an Indiana championship team. Her charm and sincerity were of inestimable value to Hammond High in its drive for the title. Willis Jacobs, captain of the team, spoke third. Willis was the only experienced member of his team, and thus had the greatest burden. It must be said of Willis that he was a quick thinker and an excellent debater, his rebuttal speech often cinching the victory for his team.

On the Negative, Elmer Rose spoke third in constructive and second in rebuttal. The nature of Elmer's assignment necessitated great ability at extemporaneous speaking; and Elmer always came through with the goods. John Gunnell spoke second in constructive and first in rebuttal. His rebuttal ability made him valuable in that capacity. But to John Christensen, captain of the Negative, must go the laurels as Hammond's outstanding debater. John was picked as a member of the All-State team, the greatest honor which can come to an Indiana debater. To John's great rebuttal speech goes much of the credit for Hammond's victory against Princeton.

Upon entering Room 204 some morning we might be surprised and puzzled to know just what is going on there. It is the French Club conducting one of its meetings.

About six years ago this club was organized to create, among the students taking French, more interest in speaking the language which they were studying. Students who received a "B" average in French during their first semester and those who received a "C" average for the first year were allowed to become members of the club, which conducts all of its business and programs in this useful foreign language.

The club is an active organization and takes part in all school activities, such as the Fair. The club usually sponsors an all-school dance, also.

This year the members have found interest in studying the history, customs, and geography of the various provinces of France as well as the famous people who came from them. During the second semester the club took enjoyable, though imaginary, journeys to these provinces. The members also bring to the meetings current events and other interesting topics concerning France.

During the first semester the club was under the capable leadership of Morris Johnson, Dorothy Guy, Grace Tweedle, and Louis Bernat. The election in February decided that the members would trust their guidance to John Jones, Morris Johnson, Dorothy Guy, and Arthur Howarth. The club also has an active Herald reporter in the person of Ruth Hammerstrom.

Der Deutsche Verein (so called to confuse all those innocent but worthy persons who are not familiar with the lingo of the Kaiser) has enjoyed in Hammond High School an untroubled reign which, we may dare say, has surpassed that of the House of Hohenzollern in the Vaterland itself. In the past two years it has grown tremendously in size and popularity, and under the guidance of Miss Suerth it may well be numbered among the leading clubs of the school.

The club's membership is restricted absolutely to those students of the German language who have received an "A" or "B" after studying it for a semester. The meetings of the club are made interesting by playlets, discussions of current topics, a study of Germany, and a talk by an occasional outside speaker. It follows that the members of the club must necessarily be fluent in the use of German, as the meetings are carried out entirely in this language. This also tends to improve the ability of the students to speak and understand German.

During the past few years ambassadors of good-will have been prevalent throughout Europe, the United States, and South America. However, we know none more effective or more welcome than the legation of good-will representatives of Deutschland in our own German Club.

The club this year contains thirty-seven members. Growing steadily, it has become the goal of all the German students in our high school to be numbered among its members.

During the school year of nineteen twenty-four to nineteen twenty-five, some new and interesting organizations appeared on the threshold of school activities. They were the Science Clubs, composed chiefly of three groups of ambitious students interested in science and scientific projects and problems. The Chemistry Section held the interest of chemically inclined students, while the Biology Section was composed of those interested or taking Biology and passing with an "A" record. The third section, and most interesting for nature and outdoor lovers, is the Camera Section, the fore-runner of our present-day Camera Club, and was organized by those pupils interested in pictures and picture making.

The aim of the Camera Club is to further interest in photography in the minds and hearts of those so-stated chemically inclined students. The second and chief aim is to train the student or member to take better pictures and learn by experience to develop their own pictures. Each student must be able to make a good print before he is legally signed up as a regular member of the club. Ample instruction is given to the member-to-be, so that he has a fair chance and can compete with the student who already knows the art.

Many opportunities to take pictures are given each member. On Hobo Day the keen observer can distinguish members of the Camera Club taking snapshots of the "silly dudes," or at a football game, pep meeting or various other outdoor events, the faint clicking of their cameras can be heard.

The Bohemian Club, which is composed of Hammond High's literary-minded pupils, represents the Brahmin caste among the many struggling students of the English language in our school. It is the lofty ambition of most of these scholars to be numbered among the club's members. Membership in this organization is, therefore, the realization of the attainment of this goal. A pupil who is recommended by his or her English teacher as being interested in and well acquainted with good literature, and able to express original thoughts well, may be a candidate for membership. The pupil is then required to write a specimen of his best type of literary work. If this is accepted as sufficiently original by a committee consisting of the sponsors and the officers of the club, the amateur author enters the sacred domain of the Bohemian.

The club was organized for the dual purpose of encouraging original and creative writing, and of studying good literature. The aim of the club is to write, or collect from high school students, the best essays, short stories, poems, and plays. They have fulfilled this aim by producing these literary masterpieces, which they have either written or collected, in their annual literary supplement which they publish as an added feature of the Herald.

The meetings of the club, which consist of lectures, book reviews, readings, and discussions, are produced by the club members and the best available outside talent.

The English department sponsors the club, and during the past year the organization has functioned effectively under the supervision of Miss Overmeyer and Miss Schwiebert.

The Girls' Athletic Club is sponsored by the gym teachers, Miss Dieterich and Miss Anderson. Its purpose is not only to sponsor all sports, but also to promote health and sportsmanship. The club not only does this, but also takes an active part in supporting all school enterprises.

This year the club has about thirty members. Each girl gained membership by participating in at least one sport weekly, averaging a grade of "C," and proving herself a good sport. The club will take in new members in May.

The club has enjoyed many good times this year. Among the good times enjoyed were the Christmas-Initiation party and a roller skating party.

As a motive for a more active and interesting club, awards are given. A sweater is awarded for one thousand points, and a monogram for eight hundred points. These points are received for participating in various activities. Some of the activities are varsity swimming, basketball, speedball, volleyball, hiking, dancing, membership in National Honor Society, wearing suitable clothing, and attending school regularly without hindrance from sickness. Money for these awards is being earned by holding candy and cookie sales.

The club has been divided into two teams who will compete against each other in basketball, swimming, volleyball and baseball. Each girl of the winning team will be given points toward her G. A. C. credit, and the team having the highest number of points will be treated by the losers.

So far the only two who have earned the necessary points for their sweaters are Dorothy Fisher and Madge Bailey. More power to them!

The purpose of our high school chapter of the Y. M. C. A. is, as stated in the club's constitution, "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character." This standard they successfully strive to uphold through their moral influence on the boys of our school. Bible study and social service also help to bear out the sincerity of their purpose.

Any junior or senior boy who subscribes to the stated purpose of the club and is admitted because of his moral principles and satisfactory conduct may become a member of this popular club. However, not all of the applicants have been admitted, as the club membership is limited to thirty-five boys.

The programs of the Hi-Y are of two kinds, their regular scheduled school meetings and their evening meetings. During the former, business is taken up and a program presented, with an occasional speaker. Their evening meetings, popularly termed "bean feeds," are always made enjoyable by some well-known speaker, group singing, and a general social time.

The Hi-Y's major project during the past year has been the sponsoring of the Junior Hi-Y for Freshmen and Sophomores.

Mr. Myers, the club sponsor, and four members of the club represented Hammond High at the Older Boys' Conference at Kokomo this last year. Another high spot of the year was the Father and Son banquet, which will be remembered as one of the club's most successful social gatherings. Orville Reissig, one of the club's most active members, was elected president of the Hi-Y presidents at their state conference last year, and has served in that capacity for the past year.

The Ace of Clubs is Hammond High's exclusive freshman society. It is one of the oldest clubs in Hammond High School, having been formed some nine years ago for the dual purpose of raising the standard of scholarship among the newcomers and to increase co-operation between the "freshies" and the teachers. The prime requisite for membership in this club is a "B" average in scholarship. Any freshman who comes up to this standard is eligible to become a member.

The Ace of Clubs, which in reality is fit to be called the Freshman Honor Society, holds meetings once every three weeks. The programs are diversified instead of needing to cling to some certain topic. In the first semester literature was discussed and the programs consisted of book reviews, poems, readings, etc., ad infinitum. During the second semester the programs were more general, discussions of current topics being the main substance of the programs.

As the Ace of Clubs is one of the very few clubs to which a freshman may belong, it fills an important place in making his first experience in a Hammond High School club pleasant. To belong to the Ace of Clubs is a mark of distinction as to scholarship among the freshmen. The dues are only the nominal fee of twenty-five cents a semester.

Each year sees this organization sponsor some school activity, and each year its numbers increase. It will be interesting to watch the progress of the present club members as they go through school.

The Bank Cashiers' Club is, as its name implies, an organization composed of the bank cashiers of all the advisories. It was organized in 1929 in order to reduce the number of mistakes in banking and to raise the percentage of pupils who bank. They have succeeded quite well in this, and this year their purpose has been to promote thrift, not only in money, but in time and school work as well.

Its many achievements of this year show that it is active in all school activities and is working for the progress of the school. A thrift play, the cast of which was composed of cashiers, was given in the auditorium for thrift week, and the cashiers also sponsored the dance at the annual Fair. In order to wish the students and faculty a Happy New Year and to encourage their banking, the club published a four-page mimeographed paper entitled "Highlights in Thrift." Since this was well received by students and faculty, it was decided to continue the paper as a two-page issue, which has been published every month under the direction of Doris Kitchin, editor; Nina Hofstetter, news director; and Michael Lah, cartoonist; and several reporters.

In February the president of this organization, William Brunt, graduated and Richard Aageberg advanced from the position of vice-president to take his place. This left the position of vice-president vacant, and Faith Purdy's withdrawal from the club left the secretary's position vacant also. An election resulted in these positions being filled by Genevieve Stoll and Martha McBride.

The Arts and Crafts Club was organized primarily to promote social activities among the members of the art department. Not only does the club do this, but it is active in all school activities. Students who have taken one semester of art and who have received a "C" average are eligible for membership.

Studying art and artists is the main subject of this organization at its regular meetings. Occasionally a program committee is appointed by the Sponsor or the President, and is responsible entirely for the education and entertainment of the members in that tri-weekly meeting.

The Arts and Crafts Club is solely answerable for the largest form of dancing entertainment throughout the entire year. Last year's Bal Masque was based on the "Pioneer" theme. This year's was extremely fascinating and entertaining. It was called the "Snow Frolic." Prizes were awarded for the queerest and most elaborate costumes. With two peppy orchestras and a most enchanting environment, there was no end of fun. There were two rooms. In the first, which was the boys' gymnasium, there were igloos and icebergs representing the North Pole. At varied intervals the Aurora Borealis would colorfully illuminate the room. In the second compartment, which was the girls' gymnasium, there were many Christmas trees, symbolizing a northern forest in the moonlight. As soft, dreamy music drifted through the trees and as the yellow moonlight caused contortioned shadows, one's soul tingled with delight.

Besides the Bal Masque presentation, the club also decorates the halls, compartments and other places for the annual High School Fair. The club takes annual trips to the Dunes, Chicago Art Institute, and other places of artistic interest.

One of the most interesting clubs in our High School is the Press Club, which is made up of the boys who, in future years, will probably be the printers and pressmen of the great publishing houses, newspapers, and magazines. They ought to be sure of a notable place because of their early start and great interest in printing. They are following in the footsteps of Benjamin Franklin, our own eminent printer and statesman.

Each year the club takes some enjoyable trips to printing establishments and other places of interest. During the meetings varied reports are given which pertain to printing. One of the principal aims of this club is to teach its members parliamentary order and this aim is fulfilled in its meetings. It also helps stimulate interest in the art and work of printing among its members.

Any boy in school who is a Sophomore, Junior, or Senior, and is taking or has taken printing, may belong to this organization, provided he pays the dues of twenty-five cents a semester. The club has been organized for about ten years and has always been under the supervision of Mr. Howe. The membership of the club in recent years has averaged about twenty-five.

The boys of the Press Club are those who are largely responsible for the printing of the Calumet Herald and the production of much other printed material such as programs, etc. Each year they issue blotters in February to commemorate the birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

The formation and sponsoring of Hammond High's new club, the Junior Hi-Y, has been the major project of the Senior Hi-Y throughout this year. This club corresponds to the Hi-Y in practically every matter, except that only Freshman and Sophomore boys are eligible to belong. Its purpose is the same as the Senior Hi-Y, namely, "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Most of the clubs heretofore have been more or less exclusively for upper classmen and the Freshman or Sophomore has found it difficult to become a member in a club. However, the Junior Hi-Y is distinctly of the opposite variety and by its popularity has shown that such a club was much needed in the school.

Most of the club's time at the beginning of the semester was occupied by the necessary details of organization, but the social part of the program was not neglected, as the Senior Hi-Y generously invited its younger brother to its bean feeds. The older club also had the privilege of initiating the Junior Hi-Y members. This practice, however, was only for the charter members, hereafter the club members of the Junior Hi-Y initiating the newcomers themselves.

As there are only a few other Junior Hi-Y clubs in the State of Indiana, it has been quite a novelty indeed in our school, and it has been very popular with the Freshmen and Sophomores.

The club's constitution was modeled after that of the Senior Hi-Y. The membership is limited to thirty boys.

Sphinx Club

The Sphinx Club was organized in the fall of 1925 for students who receive an "A" in any one of the social sciences—history, geography, civics, occupations, economics, commercial law, and sociology. It has as its purpose: To bring about a closer contact among the students and faculty, especially those interested in social studies; to extend their acquaintance either directly or indirectly with some of the people who are important in the field of social activities; to increase their interest in the understanding of countries other than our own; to discuss current events; to sponsor school activities and assist in any of the school projects that need their assistance.

During the first semester the club had a membership of about twenty-five. By the opening of the second semester nearly fifty had made application to join, but not all were admitted.

This year the members have enjoyed studying Parliamentary Law under Mr. Myers' instruction. In order to accommodate the friends of the club and to earn money for its treasury, they sold greeting cards for Christmas. As is their custom, they entertained the debaters and took part in the Annual Fair activities.

Members of this organization are given Sphinx pins, which they are allowed to keep as long as they are qualified and belong to the club. Graduating seniors are allowed to keep theirs as a remembrance of their Sphinx Club activities.

The highest goal attainable by a student of the Hammond High School is to be elected to the membership of the National Honor Society. To be a successful candidate for membership to the club, one must excel in scholarship, character, and service. These three requirements are judged by the faculty. Being in the first third in scholarship of the Senior Class satisfies the first one. Election to the club takes place once in the fall, and once during the first part of the second semester.

The National Honor Society is the junior branch of the Phi Beta Kappa, an honorary college organization which goes back to the year 1776.

To Miss Gustafson, sponsor, and to the first semester officers, Salvo Marks, president; Gordon Randall, vice-president; Margaret Amble, secretary; and William Bachman, treasurer, is due, in a large measure, the success the club entertained during the year. Each and every member was more than ready to co-operate with the officers at all times.

The meetings of the club are divided into two parts. Every meeting starts with a business session. The remaining time is spent in a program which usually consists of an interesting talk furnished by a local citizen who is interested in the club.

During the first semester, the club entertained the Hammond-Valparaiso debators at a supper, between debates.

Every member proudly displays his emblem. The pin itself represents a keystone. Upon the pin one can see a lighted torch—the torch of Knowledge. On the bottom of the pin are the letters S. L. C. S., which stand for the traits one must have to become a member.

The Biology Club

One of the clubs in our school which is distinguished for its active spirit is the Biology Club. It is composed of those students who are so interested in biology that they are eager to gain more knowledge of the subject than the principles which the course itself offers. The membership is restricted to students who are successful in their attempt to receive an "A" or "B" for their efforts in this scientific subject.

The club, during this last semester, has been making a study of the tropical regions, including the jungles, animals, and other subjects of interest which have a connection with this region. The programs have consisted of reports, book reviews, and the like. As a result, the members have vastly increased their knowledge of the equatorial regions.

Besides their regular meetings and programs, the Biology Club also takes short trips in order to have interesting times out-of-doors.

One of the aims of the Biology Club is to plant a tree a year. They have already given a few to the school grounds and expect to repeat the gift this year, making it a fitting event for Arbor Day. It will be interesting during years to come to watch the growth of these trees as they develop into majestic objects of beauty.

This club has always been one of the most active organizations in promoting the annual Hammond High School Fair and in making it interesting by queer exhibits.

The Bookroom

Standing: William Sargent, Harriet Schillo, Lawrence Moats, Alberta Sohl. Sitting: Mr. Rupp.

One of the most important institutions in Hammond High School is the Bookroom; however, it is given the least consideration. Every student finds it necessary to stop in that little room at some time or other during the week. Bus tickets, paper, notebooks, text books, pencils, pens, and almost all other such supplies come from there. Without this place the students would have an awkward time getting needed materials with which to work. Much time, labor, and money is saved by the buying and efforts of this group.

Mr. Rupp, the capable manager, is assisted by Lawrence Moats, Harriet Schillo, William Sargent, and Alberta Sohl.

Harriet Schillo is bookkeeper. The others are salesmen. The lost and found department was moved to the Bookroom—around the middle of the year. Lost books are called for here.

Second-hand books are also sold in the Bookroom.

All the money that is received in the High School by different organizations goes through the Bookroom and a regular banking system of deposits, checks, etc., is used.

The workers in the Bookroom deserve much praise for their efficient work and the courteous way in which they supply one's needs.

Library

The library is one of the most restful and beneficial places in the school of Hammond High. Miss Hawver, the school librarian, and a very capable one indeed, has twenty student helpers who, for their period of work in there, stacking, repairing, shelving, carding and accounting the books, receive .5 credit. They also send notices to the advisories of the students who fail to pay their fines and return overdue books.

The most congested traffic can be found around and in the library before and after school and during the three lunch hours. One may only go to the library during regular hours by presenting an admit to Miss Hawver signed by the teacher of the subject one wishes to study therein.

The system of finding books that you especially need or like is extremely simple, as the "Fiction" run in alphabetical order according to the name of the author, while "Non-Fiction" are recognized by the numbers which are printed on the backs of the books.

Besides a full collection of supplementary and reference reading books, which may be kept out just over night, the library handles mystery stories, knighthood tales, biographies, autobiographies, short stories, and travel stories. All these books may be kept fourteen days and may be renewed just once for fourteen days. A fine of two cents a day, not including Saturdays, Sundays, or school holidays or vacations, is charged for overdue books. A fine of five cents is charged for every period that a reference or supplementary book is kept out.

Sponsors—Misses Bollenbach, Johnson, White and Gustafson

One of the most popular girls' clubs of Hammond High School is the Girl Reserves, which has for its interested sponsors Miss Bollenbach and Miss Johnson. During the former's absence the first semester, the club was fortunate in having Miss White and Miss Gustafson capably assisting Miss Johnson. Membership in this organization is open to any girl who is willing to live according to the code, slogan, and purpose.

About seven years ago this organization originated as the Friendship Club. Its standards were similar to the present club and about two years later the girls changed their name and became a part of the international circle of Girl Reserves.

Because of its size and to develop more active interest among all members, the organization is divided into three groups, outside service, social service, and school service. Each girl belongs to one of these but may act on all of them.

The outside service group sponsors community service such as giving baskets of food to the poor at Thanksgiving and holding a children's Christmas party at the Brooks House. This year this group also was active in gathering, repairing, and distributing clothing for the poor. These activities vary with the needs of the community each year.

Treasurer—Dorothy Nelson

Outside Service Group Chairman—Jeanette Ferris

Social Service Group Chairman—Jeanne Lynch

School Service Group Chairman—Marcella Kooy

The social service group has charge of the club's social activities. During the first semester the club enjoyed a rally and weiner roast as well as a bean feed in which the Hi-Y joined. During the second semester the girls held a pot-luck supper for the new members. They enjoyed other social functions, the most interesting of which was, perhaps, a party given for them early in the spring by their board of advisors. This board is composed of Hammond women interested in the Girl Reserve and Y. W. C. A. work.

The school service group finds its activities in the school. It arranges for ushers at school entertainments and sells candy every night after school. It is always ready to help with all school activities.

After a girl has been a member of this club for a certain length of time and has lived up to the standards of the club, she may wear a pin. The rings are rewarded at the end of each year for outstanding club service in this organization, which is a part of the junior branch of the Y. W. C. A.

Thirty-six issues of the Calumet Herald of 1930-1931 showed that "Quality!" was indeed the aim of this year's staff of Hammond High School's weekly newspaper.

Willis Jacobs, who was elected editor by popular vote in the fall of 1930, appointed, with the efficacious aid of Mr. L. M. Hopper, an alert editorial staff; Salvo G. Marks took the difficult post of news director, and found that before he could direct it he must first discover the news. Evelyn Roberts and Ruth Hammerstrom were the two associate editors. It was these three who bore the brunt of the editor's ire in case of error or laxity in the paper.

But in the line of business management the Herald likewise excelled this year. Under the leadership of Tom Mayhew, business manager, this branch became an efficient business organization.

Furnishing positions to approximately forty students, the Calumet Herald consistently offers news, features, pictures, profit, and pleasure to the school and community. A sad blow to all, and particularly to the staff, was the reduction of the size of the Herald, necessitated by incapable printing facilities. However, though quantity was curtailed, quality soon took its place.

It was an expenditure of labor, energy, time and attention to occupy a position on the Herald. But also, it was fun! And those who look back to their year—or years—on the Herald regard it with fond affection.

For, above all, the Calumet Herald is the Students' Newspaper

During the school year, there is a work going steadily on, although the student body is unaware of much that is done. This work is the publishing of THE DUNES, the High School Year Book. The business and editorial staffs work together for the accomplishment of one goal—that of making the book the biggest success yet. Miss E. McCullough, the faculty advisor, capably assists each staff.

The editorial staff has charge of the make-up, which consists of write-ups, pictures, etc. All during the year, a busy hum of typewriters can be heard preparing the material for the press. Typing was very efficiently done by Julia Mosko, Valla Kitts, and Martha McBride. Several are kept busy on club write-ups, and others, literary work. Artists are busy sketching, other people are pasting, proofreading, and doing other menial, but necessary, tasks. This work was guided by John Gunnell, editor, and Dorothy Horton, assistant editor.

The business staff, under the leadership of Orville Reissig, business manager, and his assistant, Eugene Pressler, has been busy collecting subscriptions and advertisements. Although not thought of so frequently as the editorial staff, their work is equally important. If it were not for the competent financing by these people, the book would not be published.

Each year's theme is chosen, and carried out through the book. Each department must be fully displayed and all pages balanced to carry out this theme. Pictures, and most all artistic work, is in accordance with this theme.

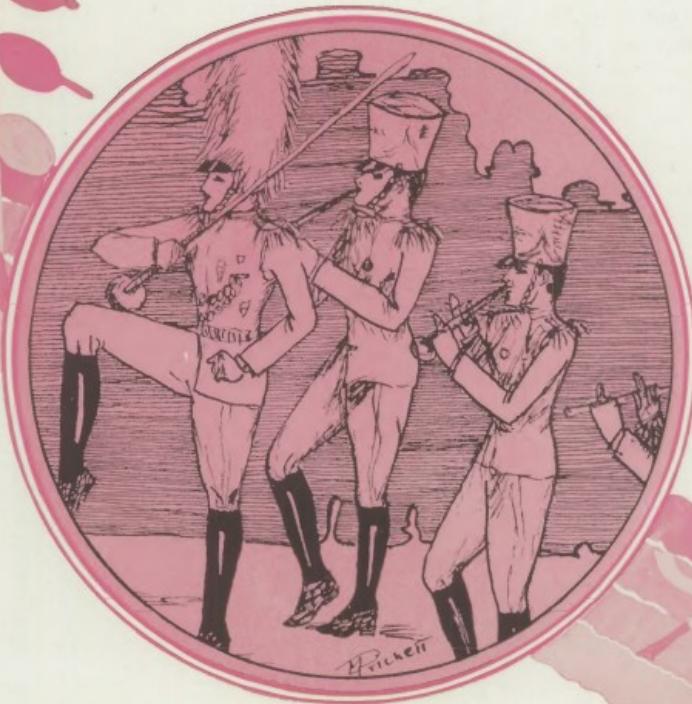

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA is perhaps the best beloved American composer and bandmaster. He is known the world over for his remarkable patriotic and inspiring marches, which surnamed him the "March King." After having formerly conducted the U. S. Marine Band, he organized his own and still tours the United States in spite of his advanced age.

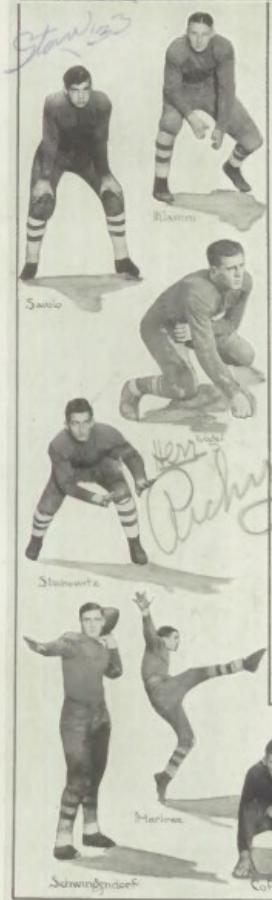

*S*OUS A has lived to see the band develop to the position it occupies today. Although not so beautiful an ensemble as an orchestra, it is the favorite entertainment for the common person and is often used in parades for "Splash," as illustrated below.

ATHLETICS

Football

"EDDIE" KLAMM. "Eddie's" work on the football squad for three years awarded him his long hoped for letter, which came as a final clash at his graduation.

"STAN" SAVOLA. There is satisfaction in the knowledge that Savola will be with us for two more years. He can be remembered for his brilliant playing in the Tech tilt.

"BOB" VOGEL. While "Bob" did not play a spectacular position, he could always be relied upon to smother any plays that came through his guard and to open up the hole for his own backfield.

"DICK" STDIKOWITZ. "Dick" was another of the promising sophomores, and, with two years left to play, he should make a name for himself.

"REX" MARLOWE. With two years' experience and his ability "Rex" should find his way into fame as a field-master for the Wildcats.

"KENNY" SCHWINGENDORF. A sophomore who, with his passing and running, should win for himself a regular place on the 1931 squad.

"KENNY" COFFING. A good right end and one of the scrappiest men on the 1930 line. He had two white stripes on his sweater when he left.

"WALLIE" HALFMAN. Hard, honest work won for "Wallie" his heart's desire, a sweater. "Wallie" will fill the center position next year.

"TUBBY" NAU. Nau's work on the football field during the last season will long be remembered in the hearts of his fellow students.

Football

LLOYD FREDLY. With his kicking and open field running, Hammond was led from danger many a time. Things will be looked for from him next year.

"EP" TIEMAN. His reward for brilliant playing and faithful service during his senior year was his election to honorary captain of the 1930 season.

"CHET" GARGAS. Another valuable member for this year's team was Gargas, and with two more seasons yet to play he should be a great ace on the coming Wildcat teams.

"BUD" SCHMUESER. Another veteran lost to next year's team who will be greatly missed is "Bud." "Bud" will ever be remembered for his 87-yard run in the Whiting game.

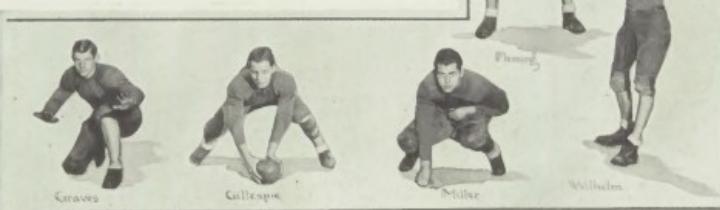

"TOM" FLEMING. "Tom" was considered the best man by many sport critics. His open field running and defensive work will be missed by the next year's team.

"JOHNNY" WILHELM. Although small in stature, speed and determination were assets which made "Johnny" one of the outstanding men of the team.

"TED" MILLER. "Ted" was determined to make good, but at the beginning of the season he suffered a strained cartilage, which kept him out of the remaining games.

"JIMMY" GILLESPIE. A new student from southern Florida who made good at center position for the Hammond Wildcats was "Jimmy."

LEE GRAVES. Though only a Sophomore, Lee saw a great deal of action on the 1930 squad. He should be a valuable member on next year's team.

Football

In the few short years that Karl Huffine has been with us, he has achieved things that have not been a reality since the memorable days of Coach Veenker, Wilson, and Morehead. In 1928 Coach Karl Huffine built up a team which came to be known as the "Uncrowned" state champions.

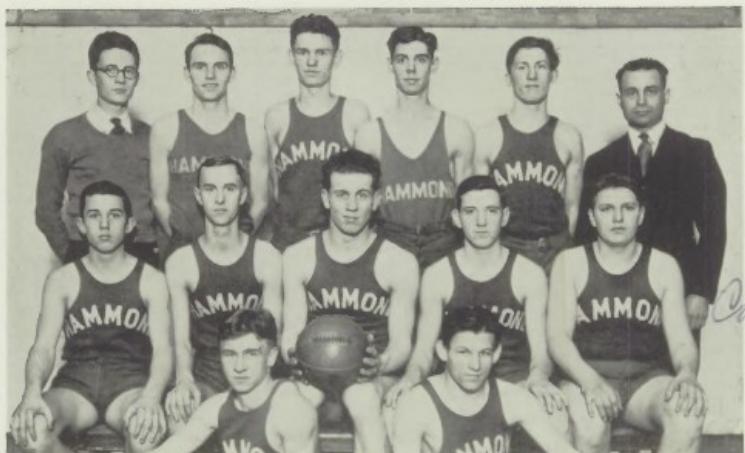

During the 1930 season Coach Huffine witnessed one of the worst seasons of his stay in Hammond High, because he lost five games, won three, and tied one. If the season had ended before the game with Tech had been played, it would have been unsuccessful. The day for the city championship saw the field filled to overflowing and many on the outside looking in. The Wildcats fought against a team that had won every game without any team crossing its goal and at the half had the Wildcats 7-0. What happened the last half is to be long remembered by those who were fortunate enough to see the fighting Wildcats come back and win 13-7.

Nine seniors are lost by graduation, and although only a few veterans are left from last year's team, the prospects for a successful football team are not at all gloomy.

Fight! That one word describes the Hammond High School Basketball Team to the best that we can say about them. They fought when defeat was certain; they fought when practically the whole first five men were ruled off the team for ineligibility and illness.

Frank Rudzinski was the leader of the team and with his sensational scoring kept them always in reaching distance of their opponents. Considering the bad season does not signify that Hammond High did not profit by her basketball team. With new material, lacking in age and size, Coach Paul Church developed a fast and hard working combination. With odds always against them, they did not give up even after the final gun.

The boys that will make history next year for the Hammond Wildcats are Eugene Trippier, if he can stay eligible; Willard Orr, sophomore; Bob Vogel, junior; James Radford, sophomore; Chester Gargas, sophomore; Henry Sedja, sophomore; Paul Biddle, sophomore; and many others from the second team will be added to the first squad.

Basketball

Two Bits!

Rudzinski

FRANK RUDZINSKI, Forward. Frank was the pilot of the team with his great ability for scoring points along with his great floor work. Frank thrilled the audience several times by his hair-raising baskets, shot at the most needed time. Frank made practically half of the points for Hammond.

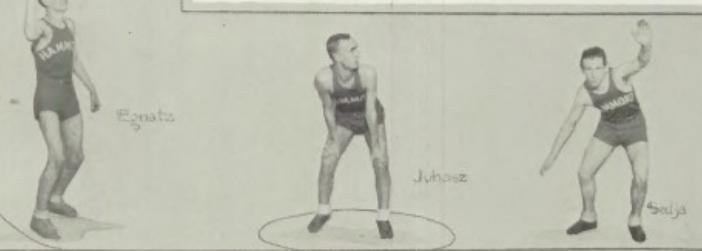

Gargas

CHESTER GARGAS, Guard. Gargas was a hard player and was always in the midst of the fray; time and time again he guarded the goal so well that he forced opposing forwards to look elsewhere to try their luck. His hard work will again be with us next year.

Egnatz

ALEX EGNAZ, Center. Egnatz served his team well. He was a good man on the floor at the jump and played a hard, willing game. There was never a time that Alex did not lend a helping hand to his teammates.

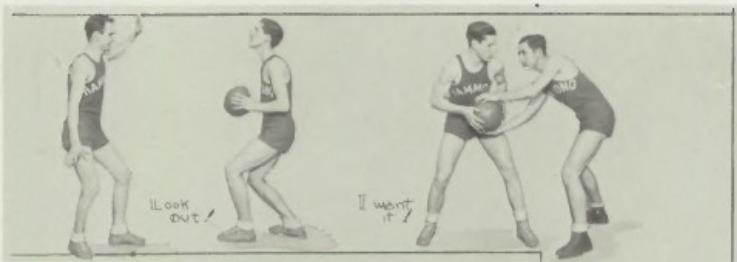

Juhasz

Sedja

LOUIS JUHASZ, Center. Juhasz was a hard man to guard and was one of the fighters on the team. He had quite a deadly aim for the basket from distant points on the floor and gave the fans many a thrill when his shots laced through the netting. Juhasz's work was cut short in the middle of the season on account of illness.

HENRY SEDJA, Guard. Sedja was an inexperienced sophomore, but he soon got the knack of things and was of great value to the team. He was a great help after some of the team were ruled off for their mistakes in training rules.

Basketball

EUGENE TRIPPIER, Forward. Trippier was one of the fastest men on the team, and it seemed that he was everywhere at the right time. He was an accurate tosser and one of Hammond's best bets, and had a habit of passing the ball.

WILLARD ORR, Guard. Orr was there to lend a helping hand when a basket was needed. He served as utility man and played best as guard. His size was one of his assets and much will be looked for from him for several years. He was fast and scrappy, which is a wonderful combination for a basketball player.

JAMES RADFORD, Forward. James was one of the best shots on the team and was noted for putting the ball through the basket from anywhere on the floor. He is a hard, willing worker, afraid of no one player. He played well at all positions. Look for him next year.

ROBERT VOGEL, Guard. "Bob" played both center and guard, and at center was the human spring for the Hammond cagers, outjumping nearly every center in the county. This is "Bob's" second year on the hardwood and much is counted on from him next season.

EDWARD TIEMAN, Forward. Tieman was a fighting, hard guarding player with plenty of speed and a keen eye for the basket. He was always in the midst of the fray, and can never be said to have lain down on the job. Tieman will be lost to us next year.

Track Team

A very inexperienced bunch of boys turned out for track this year, and among them were but a few stars. Among the boys were Raymond, Cook, Baldwin, Vogel, and Safford, and these, plus a few others, point to a somewhat prospective year for Hammond High.

Raymond, Cook, Mathews, and Baldwin carried the burden for the Wildcats. Raymond ran the half mile, the mile, and the relay, while Cook, another fast man, ran the 220 and 440. Baldwin was the most likely candidate for the high jump, and Mathews took the hurdles.

The most outstanding man of the team was Robert Raymond, who never failed to bring to Hammond a first place. It was through his work that Hammond was able to win most of their points. Much can be said about his time, for it has been increasing all season. Raymond will be lost to the team next year, and it is sad parting, for Raymond's running was of much value to the team.

The other members of the squad, Milne, Cooper, Hidy, Miller, Tweedle, and others, were making good in their fight against gravity. Most of the younger members of the squad are back next year, and things look bright, instead of gloomy, as they did this year.

Opening the schedule against Lowell, Indiana, the Wildcats, coached by the well-known professional, Spud Campbell, trounced them 8-5 in a sea of errors. A strong nine from Hammond Tech went down before the Hammond Wildcats, 8-6. The team then traveled to Lowell for a second game, on one of the coldest spring days, and lost to the country boys by a 4-3 score.

Against Valparaiso, the first conference game on the card, the Hammond lads were victorious, 6-5. Again, with the pitching power of Tom Fleming, the Hammond nine won their second conference game, 5-0. This win sent the team into a tie for first place with Washington of East Chicago. As the book goes to press, the game to decide the conference champs is under way.

Tom Fleming was the outstanding performer with a curve that dazzled all of the leading hitters. In his three games played early in the season, Tom won all three, struck out 29 batters, and was one of the leading hitters for the Hammond nine. Alex Egnatz held down first base, and Frank Rudzinski was one of the best second base players Hammond has seen. Carlson held down shortstop, Rex Marlowe, third base, and Evans has proved himself one of the best in left field. Apgar was the hard-hitting right fielder, center field was the select of either Adley, Gillespie or Keightley, while Sedja was the star catcher as well as a relief pitcher.

Boys' Swimming Team

Hammond finished fifth in the Indiana State Meet, March 26-27 this year. Swimming, which has been growing in favor among fans here during the last few years, came into its own this year with Coach Auree Scott coaching the tank aggregation.

The season brought thirty-two boys out for the team, and among them were but six of the last year's squad, and the majority of the others were green. The men returning for more were Benbow, Lah, Fross, Saker, Smith, and Walker. The diving was taken care of very well this year by Benbow, who never failed to place first or second in any meet but the state, when he was disqualified. The dashes were taken care of by Tweedle, Lah, Danch, Speichart, Walker, Smith, and Fross. The relay team was composed of any of the following: Leach, Steward, Katona, Speichart, and Evans.

The squad had a fair season, winning about half of its meets. Much is expected from them in the years to follow. Those that will carry the banner of Hammond next year are Fross, Walker, Evans, Speichart, Banks, Tweedle, Leach, and Lowe.

At a special meeting of the team after the season, Danch, star dash man, who was an outstanding star all year, was awarded the position of captain for the season of 1931. And at the same time Speichart, also a well-known man in the dash, was elected captain for the next year.

Girls' Swimming Team

Top row: Marion Estrup, Olive Shaw, Madge Bailey, Consuelo Kant, Genevieve Dorsey, Frances Lowell, June Kleighege, Kathryn Mayhew. Bottom row: Henrietta Plantinga, Grace Tweedie, Marjorie Betz, Garnet Buckner, Juel Dobbins, Alice Beckman.

Our girls' swimming team is steadily improving in ability. Although we lost two good divers, we gained in swimming ability. Jane Kleighege improved her crawl stroke so much that she and Connie Kant, our last year's star, tied Miss Riborich of Whiting, who holds the state record.

There has also been a decided improvement in spirit as well as ability. The turnouts have been much larger and better. The turnout totaled about twenty-five after the final cut had been made. Most of the swimmers are out for more than one stroke. This fact causes much more competition among the varsity swimmers for places on the team.

Among the old swimmers out to make a better team this year are Connie Kant, Betty Stoikowitz, Olive Shaw, Frances Lowell, Juel Dobbins, Jane Kleighege, and Madge Bailey. This shows that the rest of the team has been picked from new girls out for the first time. Although these girls are swimming for their team, it is hard for them to keep their places, as the new ones are acquiring good speedy strokes.

So far this year, we have had two swimming meets with East Chicago and Whiting respectively. The one with East Chicago, held in our pool, was our first win. Our girls took many first places. All records in the girls' pool have been broken this year, and everyone is trying hard to beat the time made for all events. Although the girls were defeated by Whiting at Whiting's pool they are not discouraged. They are practicing hard in order to win over Whiting when they meet them in their own pool.

Tennis

What promises to be the most brilliant and successful athletic team of the year 1931 is the tennis team. It is under the supervision of Mr. Hendricks, who is organizing the team, and its games number twenty-three so far. Last year the team went through its entire schedule without tasting defeat and a year ago it was the same.

Ever since the first sign of spring the boys have been practicing either in the girls' gym or out-of-doors. This year Edward Tieman is the captain and most outstanding star, with Bill Law, Dick Steelman, and Gullison as his partners.

Games have been arranged with Roosevelt, Washington of East Chicago, Emerson, Froebel, Horace Mann, Thornton Fractional, and possibly with Chicago Heights and some of the schools in the Chicago district.

With Tieman, Steelman, and Gullison, much is expected of this year's team. It is hoped that with this trio and the other promising men who are expected to come out, Hammond may rank again among the teams of the Calumet region, and the State of Indiana may know that Hammond has tennis teams.

The team will start its season the first week in May and play up until school is out. With tennis as a sport it ranks with football and basketball, and it is expected that the boys will well earn a letter from Hammond High for their efforts.

Girls' Speedball Team

The girls started in September practicing Speedball for the Inter-class Tournament. Speedball is a combination of soccer and basketball. During cold weather and mild weather, the girls practiced, becoming more skillful all the time in the use of their feet in handling a small soccer ball.

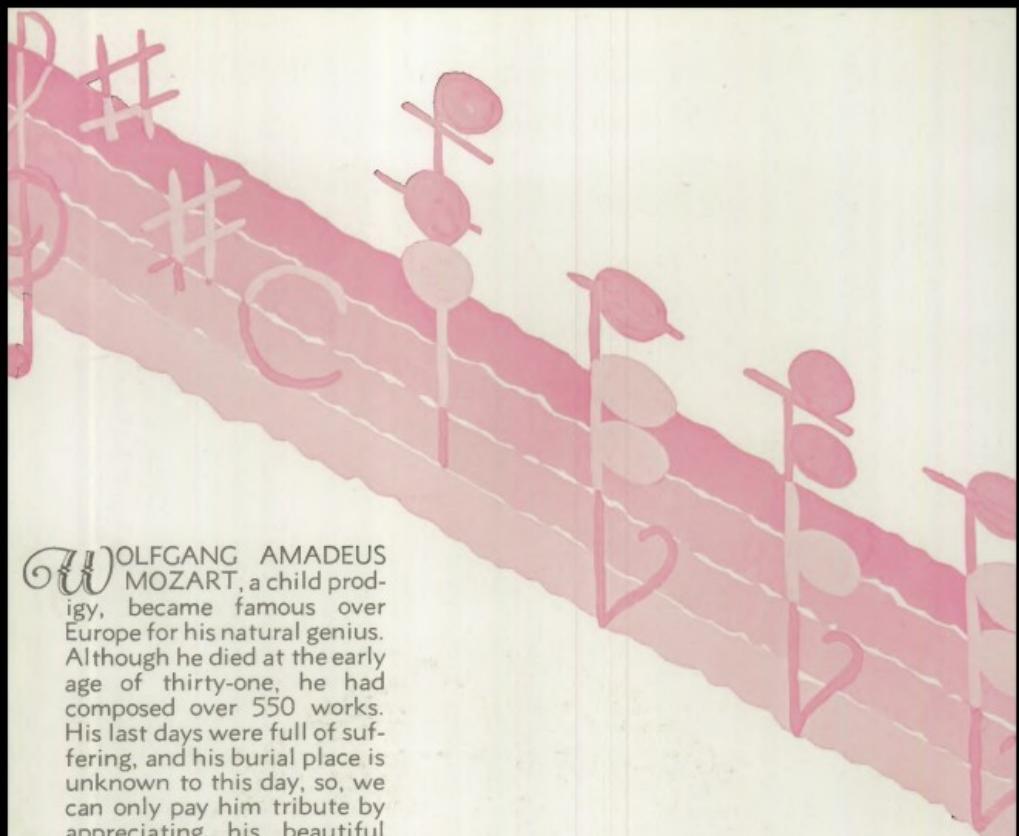

The day of the tournament was set and the Seniors were to play the Juniors. The day was bitter cold and fast action was needed to keep the blood in circulation. Between quarters and the half they were forced to go inside to warm up so they could go back and play again. The Seniors conquered the Juniors by a few points.

The next evening, just as cold as the previous day, the Freshmen and Sophomores played. Both teams played a good game but the Freshmen showed superior playing, gaining victory over the Sophomores.

The day of the finals was warm, a relief to the players who had frozen their legs off during the first two nights. Seniors versus Freshmen—what a game! Both teams played fast and furious but with excellent teamwork. The score was very close, but the Seniors having more experience from former years of playing triumphed over the Freshmen.

Girls from the four class teams were picked to form the varsity team; they were chosen according to their ability in handling the ball with their feet, and their teamwork with the other players during a game.

In this game teamwork is all supreme. Speedball fosters good sportsmanship among the girls as they acquire technique and skill. The lungs and the muscles of the legs are especially developed in the game of Speedball.

WOLFGANG AMADEUS MOZART, a child prodigy, became famous over Europe for his natural genius. Although he died at the early age of thirty-one, he had composed over 550 works. His last days were full of suffering, and his burial place is unknown to this day, so, we can only pay him tribute by appreciating his beautiful music, sublime in its simplicity.

*J*N Mozart's symphonies, numbering forty-nine, they all, no doubt, contain minuets which was a dance form of the day.

The picture below illustrates a couple dancing the graceful minuet, which, perhaps, is the predecessor of the modern waltz.

Gum Chewing for Polite Society or Artistic Mastication for Beginners

"No, no, no!" MISS BUCK was becoming impatient. "Extend the little finger—that's it! Now pull, gently but firmly. Careful! Not too far. Now retrieve." Sixteen jaws worked feverishly as the gum was drawn back into the owners' mouths. "All together now," commanded Miss Buck, tapping the cadence with her ruler. "Pull! Retrieve! Pull! Retrieve! Pull! Retrieve! Halt!" Miss Buck laid down her ruler and chewed thoughtfully for a moment.

"Your technique is, on the whole, very fair," she continued. "Very fair, considering what you have to work with. I do wish that the STATE BOARD would give Blatz a chance. In my opinion, BLATZ GRAPE GUM is head and shoulders above the rest, for school use. I use Blatz exclusively in my demonstrations," she added, with a touch of pardonable pride.

"Of course," she went on, "'OH BOY BUBBLE GUM' has its good points, but I'm inclined to think that it is a little too sticky for general use. I'll never forget the time that I put some behind my ear between classes. It's still there," she sighed. "That's why I had to bob my hair."

As she sat there, chewing with a preoccupied air, she unconsciously displayed some of the intricate variations and evolutions which had placed her on the heights to which many aspire but few attain.

"SPEARMINT?" Miss Buck awoke from her reverie with a start. "Who said Spearmint? Don't you dare mention that name again. Did I ever tell you about my experience with that stuff? I was chewing five sticks at once one evening. Well, the next morning, when I took it off the BED-POST, it had lost every bit of its FLAVOR! From then on, whenever I've wanted a little Spearmint, my policy has been to go around and collect it off the bottoms of chairs and tables. It tastes EVERY BIT as good. . . . Class dismissed."

If you are a male, turn this around and read it.
Ah, you naughty girl, we knew we'd catch you!

EUGENE: Let's sit in the parlor.

"FUZZY": No, I'm too tired. Let's go out and play tennis.

Miss McCULLOUGH (Returning from Press Convention): I want some of that apple.

JOHN GUNNELL: You can have one bite.

Miss McCULLOUGH: No, I want the whole apple.

JOHN: Then take two bites.

BASEBALL COACH: Have you ever had any experience?

ELMER ROSE: Well, I played first bass with the Hammond High School Orchestra for four years.

TOM MAYHEW: What is $5 Q + 5 Q$?

WILLIS JACOBS: 10 Q.

TOM MAYHEW: You're welcome.

How to Get to School in Two Rainy Afternoons or Easy Lessons in Einstein

Put on the umbrella and slide cautiously out of the cellar window, keeping a sharp lookout on all sides, including the hypotenuse. There are thirteen reasons why you don't take a bus. The first one is that you don't have the dime; the remaining six have nothing at all to do with three-point landings. If curious, send a stamped, undressed envelope, and your money will be cheerfully refunded. (Sent in plain wrapper to those over 18 years of age.)

This brings the score to deuce, with the home team in the lead. Next proceed half a block in almost any direction, then turn left. If there is no place to turn, shake well and start adding vanilla. When in doubt, remember the inspiring words of Isaac O'Hara, the noted Scandinavian philosopher:

"Were it not for the trials and tribulations of life, without an open fireplace."

This advice will be found particularly enlightening to the Confederation of Middle-aged Fruit Tree Pruners of Paris, Illinois (C.M.F.T.P. of P.I.).

Having taken these definite steps, we are within sight of our destitution. The only remaining obstacle is the Erie freight. If the cow just won't get off the track, throw the whole mess out the window and open up a can of condensed milk.

MR. MYERS: What was that bathtub I saw you with last night?

MR. KUMPF: That wasn't no bathtub; that was the Debating trophy.

MELBOURNE McCONNELL: Isn't there such a thing as a "soap" tree?

JOHN VAN DELESTER: Sure. Haven't you ever heard of the Palm Olive tree?

REX MARLOWE: Do you want to meet some awfully nice people?

RUTH DENNIS: Never mind, I'd rather be with you.

TUBBY NAU: I've only had two girls walk home on me.

RED STRONG: What did the rest do?

TUBBY NAU: Run.

ORVILLE REISSIG: Did you vote for me for "best looking"?

LOWELL TUCKER: No, I wasn't the one.

PEEWEE GORDON: How do you know you're pure?

MARIE BERG: Well, I'm white; and when I go swimming I float.

JOHN CHRISTENSEN: I'm half inclined to kiss you.

MARCELLA KOY: How stupid of me; I thought you were merely round shouldered.

Reform School Holiday

July 4, 1801, was a big day at the Penal Farm. Pictures were taken. All of the inmates had on their best Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes except Deane White (row 2, seat 8), Marie Gustafson (row 2, seat 10), and Florence Brunsell (row 1, seat 12). Due to bad behavior, they had to wear their habitual costumes. Even the rear guard warmed to the occasion and put on his vest (gravy included).

The inmates are all dangerous characters and are therefore carefully guarded. For instance, Karl Huffine (row 1, seat 3) and Paul Church (row 1, seat 4) are serving time for sewing up the sleeves and legs of their principal's Sunday suit. Lawrence Hopper committed the deadly crime of cheating himself at solitaire. He is in for life, and no one need fear of his getting out, as he is in chains.

Maida Heiner (row 2, seat 4) was first in for pulling the wings and legs off flies. Upon getting out she and Marion Dieterich (row 2, seat 11) and Eunice McCullough (row 2, seat 15) were caught throwing hot pennies to monkeys. The humane society became greatly incensed over this.

August Spohn (row 1, seat 1), Ethel Kirby (row 1, seat 11), Ernest Hays (row 1, seat 7), Bob Wilson (row 1, seat 9), Edna Exeley (row 3, seat 6) and Ada Depree (row 3, seat 13) are serving terms for lining up with peashooters and pestering dumb animals. Their terms have been prolonged, due to bad behavior.

Bernice Buck (row 3, seat 4) parked her favorite wad of Blatz Grape Chewing Gum on the seat of the chief of police's swivel chair and is still on the Farm. The walls of her cell are practically invisible, due to the gum. She finds this an easy method of catching unsuspecting guards and visitors.

Mary Suerth (row 2, seat 6) was sent up for hanging around the boys' lockers. Rumor has it that she is successfully engaged to three or four guards.

The rest are in for things too sad to mention.

Baby's Birthday Party

A big banquet was held in honor of the birthday of the notorious James Shanklin. Many of Hammond's most prominent citizens (or rather residents) were present. The banquet was held in the large dining hall of Mr. Shanklin's home. There were various speakers during the course of the dinner, of whom were, Mr. Shanklin himself, Mr. William Blackmun, and Mr. Richard Steelman, who gave a heated discussion on the government monopoly of rum running, and other rather well paying interests. They afterward retired to the garden where the cigars were passed around. The ladies joined them later, in time for their pictures to be taken by a Times reporter, who just appeared on the scene.

Mr. Shanklin received many lovely presents, including those given him by his guests. Mary Ellen Cooper and Virginia Parrett presented him with a high-powered machine gun, his name engraved in full down the side. (Apparently he is expected to furnish his own ammunition.) The gun is of the latest make, Thompson Sub-Machine, and will grace his armory accordingly. Richard Steelman gave him a dozen boxes of cigars (Mexico's best and strongest). Mary Ruth Smith presented him with a case of "tear" bombs—their purpose is left to the imagination. Joe Blackmun gave Mr. Shanklin the very latest in black-jacks and attachable brass knuckles.

The big surprise of the day came when Orville Reissig presented Mr. Shanklin with an imported, hand-tailored, bullet-proof vest. It was of the finest quality of woven spun metal, and was very light in proportion to its strength, weighing only sixty-two pounds. At first Mr. Shanklin was a little disappointed because there was no gravy on the vest; but Genevieve Stoll fixed this when she tried it on and then slobbered all over it with her all-day sucker.

The party very nearly broke up when some of the girls teased Julia Mosko to kiss Orville Reissig, which she promptly did. About that time Orville began to suspect that the party was getting rough, so he stuck his thumb in his mouth and began to cry. Julia, however, thought that he was crying for more; and had to be watched closely all the rest of the afternoon to keep her away from Orville.

In Memoriam

Although we realize that this comes about five months too late, we feel that something should be said in honor of our Affirmative Debating Team, which passed away during a preliminary debate with Michigan City at the beginning of the season.

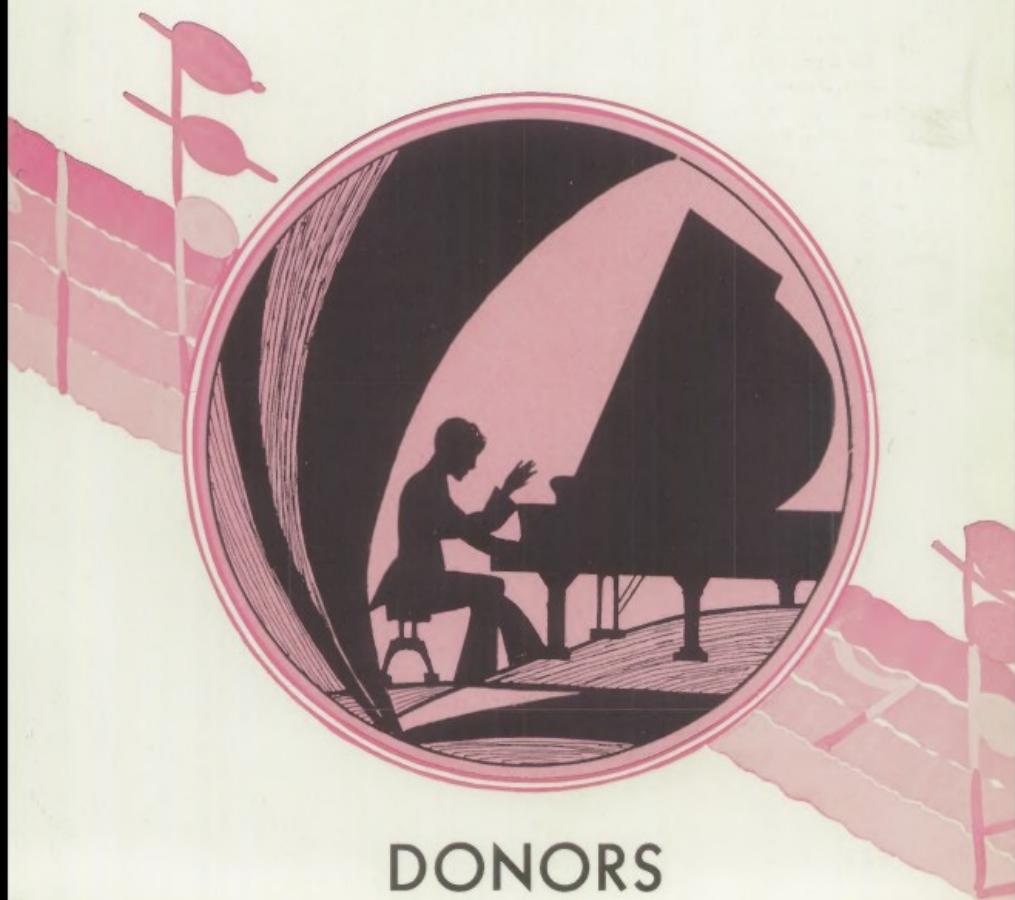

Before their death, however, our Affirmative debaters, fighting hard, managed to eke out wins over (1) Three ladies from the W. C. T. U., who were discussing politics, and didn't know that a debate was in progress; (2) a team of stray dogs, who were too hungry to care what our team said; and (3) an aggregation of cigar store Indians—stolen from nearby merchants. Thus far they were undefeated; but, alas, Waterloo was in sight. Their first and most decisive defeat was at the hands of a team of blind, crippled, deaf-mute, imbecilic morons, who were gagged and put in strait-jackets to make the contest more even. Salvo, Margaret, and Willis fought like demons, but the other debaters were so superior in delivery, ease and argumentation, that our team was outclassed from the start.

RICHARD STRAUSS, a modernist, is the greatest exponent of Wagner's ideas. His compositions, mainly tone-poems, are very descriptive and show great freedom of style. Contrasted with other modernists, his works rank far above them, and can often be found on concert programs. Nothing of importance has been written about him in the last twenty years, and he is at present living in Europe.

 THE sketch below, rather fantastic in appearance, well illustrates the performance of many of the present works by such modernists as Stravinsky, Ravel, Sowerby, Prokofieff, Respighi and others. This music will probably not live, but shows effort to found a new school of music.
